EXPERIENCE JULY 2009–PRESENT, FREELANCE GRAPHIC DESIGNER

Clients range from corporations to small businesses and non-profit organizations

Today I continue to collaborate with great people (from large and small organizations alike) to develop visual communications that get enthusiastic results. When I'm not freelancing, I develop my own communications at the Lindler Fried Group, where I work closely with creative director, Bob Lindler—a great mentor and philosopher. My objective is to continue learning while working through observation, application and practice.

MARCH 2006–MAY 2009, GRAPHIC DESIGNER

Devaney & Associates, Inc., a full service advertising, marketing and public relations agency

Hired to think both creatively and strategically, designers at Devaney & Associates, Inc. work in collaborative settings with clients, other creative team members, and media and account team members. Here, I made full use of every opportunity to help concept and develop successful communications solutions for clients ranging from non-profits to large corporations.

OCTOBER 2005–DECEMBER 2005, MARKETING INTERN

CitiFinancial corporate headquarters, a global financial institution

Learning to think strategically and with the client's needs and objectives in mind, this internship proved to be both challenging and rewarding. I worked with marketing professionals and outside creative agencies to develop national campaigns and promotional events.

JANUARY 2001–SEPTEMBER 2005, JUNIOR GRAPHIC DESIGNER

PDA Marketing, an advertising, public relations and graphic design firm

My tenure at PDA Marketing began as a marketing intern. During this time, I worked vigorously not only to maintain marketing initiatives and promotional event planning, but also to develop visual communications systems to assist these initiatives. Seeing my eagerness, I was welcomed into the graphic design department as a junior graphic designer—this is where my real-world education began.
